FOREWORD

"There is only one Year Book."

Those six little words were first spoken exactly 38 years ago by a distinguished figure in the American motion picture industry, and they hold true today as this, the 1956 edition of the Year Book makes its appearance to serve its international readership as the premiere film reference work.

The reason for this acknowledged supremacy in a challenging field is found once again in its authoritative editorial text, marked as it is by the introduction of new service features and complete revision. Necessarily all publications, including reference volumes, must have editorial deadlines. The Year Book, however, is unique in that compilation and revision is continuous until the last form is on the press.

In this new edition, special attention is directed to the augmented personnel section, re-designed for quick reference use; to the first published list of industry and fan publications in foreign countries; to the expanded foreign section, and to an up-to-the-minute television section, and an equally comprehensive equipment section.

In these days of conflicting industry viewpoints, special interest, too, must center in the Year Book message contributed by Mr. Eric Johnston, the president of the Motion Picture Association of America. It is commended to you.

To all those, in the United States and elsewhere, who contributed to and assisted in the preparation of this Year Book, our thanks and appreciation.

—Jack Alicoate

Wherever there's Music
. . . there's BMI

Music is heard and enjoyed everywhere and just about all the time. It is hard to imagine what life would be like without music.

It is equally difficult to conceive of any well-balanced program of music without hearing tunes that are licensed for performance through BMI.

For BMI has added immeasurably to the public's enjoyment of music during its 15 years of service to music and broadcasting. BMI, through its affiliated composers and publishers, continues to make available to the world a widely diversified music repertoire—popular, folk, standard, symphonic, operatic, educational—that fills every music need.

BMI-licensed music is heard everywhere, all the time—on radio and TV, in the home, the church, restaurants, night clubs, ballrooms, hotels, skating rinks, amusement parks, concert halls, juke boxes, motion picture theaters and wherever there's music.

In your theatre too,

These Pepsi girls bring you MORE SOFT DRINK SALES and Pepsi-Cola gives you

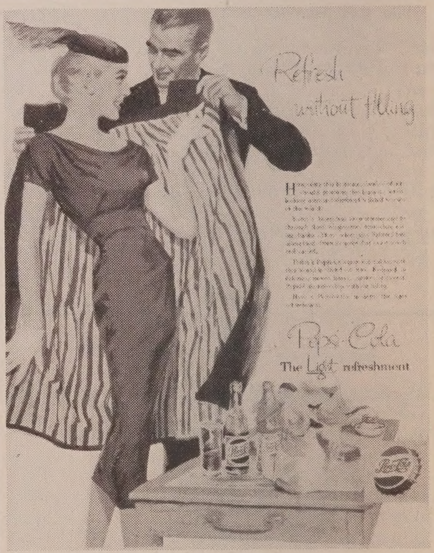
MORE DRINKS PER GALLON

MORE PROFIT PER DRINK



Pepsi-Cola's national advertising appeals to today's figure-conscious women. That's why Pepsi is today more popular than ever. This booming popularity sells more Pepsi in more and more theatres—and at a higher profit to operators in whatever form it's served.

Pepsi profit tops all nationally advertised and nationally available cola syrup lines. Pepsi's syrup price is the lowest of any nationally advertised cola. Add extra profits from Pepsi's extra drinks—128 drinks per gallon, compared with 115 for other comparable colas. In your own theatre operation, Pepsi-Cola can boost your beverage sales and profits all along the line. Write today for full details.

PEPSI-COLA

Pepsi-Cola Company, 3 West 57th Street, New York 19, N. Y.

HARD TO PLEASE

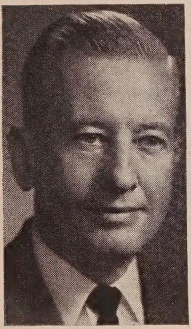
By ERIC JOHNSTON

President, Motion Picture Association of America

THERE'S A MILDEWED OLD MAXIM in our business that "you can't please everybody."

I'm beginning to wonder—after a decade in the industry—whether that maxim shouldn't be amended to say "you can't please anybody."

Now I suppose I should be used to the knockers and detractors of our industry. In 10 years I have heard most of the beefs—roasted and reroasted.



JOHNSTON

Well, I think it has just about reached the kindling point. The beefs have been roasted so often in recent months that something is beginning to burn.

And it may be me.

I'm a bit hot under the collar because the chorus of detractors has reached a pitch point where we're damned if we do and damned if we don't.

Except to the public, nothing Hollywood does seems to be right.

On one hand we are badgered because Hollywood wasn't turning out enough "adult" films and pictures with timely themes. Then when these films came along we were beleaguered because Hollywood wasn't gearing its product to the juvenile mind and acceptance.

The Code is too restrictive and it's too loose. Hollywood films weren't artistic enough—or they were too "arty." We should cut down on our intra-industry squabbles but let's toss arbitration in the ashcan. Political censorship is wrong and unconstitutional but the state censors should be more strict with individual pet hates or concerns.

If we sent overseas only those pictures approved by all the self-styled experts, Hollywood would wind up with no films going abroad—or perhaps only those pictures which carry the one label our films have always avoided: government propaganda.

We're rapped for contributing to juvenile delinquency when the crime statistics are increasing. But I don't recall when we are credited with helping when crime figures go down.

To one pressure group our films have too much of this and not enough of that. To another group we have too much of that and not enough this.

If all of this sounds as if I am a little annoyed, I am. Our industry has been measured for burial so often it is getting a little wearying and wearing.

But along with my temporary pique I plead guilty to a permanent sense of optimism.

I plead guilty to an abiding faith in the future of our industry and to a lasting belief that Hollywood will grow and prosper and continue to turn out pictures approved by people throughout the world.

And that's a maxim that will never need amending.

THE YEAR 1955

—An Industry History

By CHESTER B. BAHN

Editor, THE FILM DAILY

A YEAR OF MAJOR CHANGE

FOR THE AMERICAN motion picture industry, 1955 was a year of major change.

A principal film company changed ownership and management. . . . Another saw its president of 28 years relinquish the post to become board chairman, giving way to the son of the company's founder. . . . Two co-owners of still a third sold their interests. . . . Three major companies entered television film production. . . . One major company sold its complete film inventory for television – and other – exhibition. . . . A second made available 104 old films for television distribution by its wholly-owned subsidiary. . . . A third sold the greater part of its inventory of short subjects for television distribution. . . . And a principal producer of short subjects was purchased by a major broadcasting company.

BAHN

In Hollywood, too, change was on the march, paving the way for, among other things, the five-day week in production. It was writtern first into the IATSE studio contract, to become effective on Jan. 30; that the talent guilds would be like minded was to be expected.

Yes, it was a year of major change, with the very changes themselves clearly cueing still others inevitably to come. . . and who may safely say that the latter will not be of even greater impact?

I. THE DEALS OF THE YEAR

¶ TWO DEALS, in both of which one corporate principal was the same, dominated the trading field in 1955. There was, moreover, a striking cause-and-effect relationship between the two.

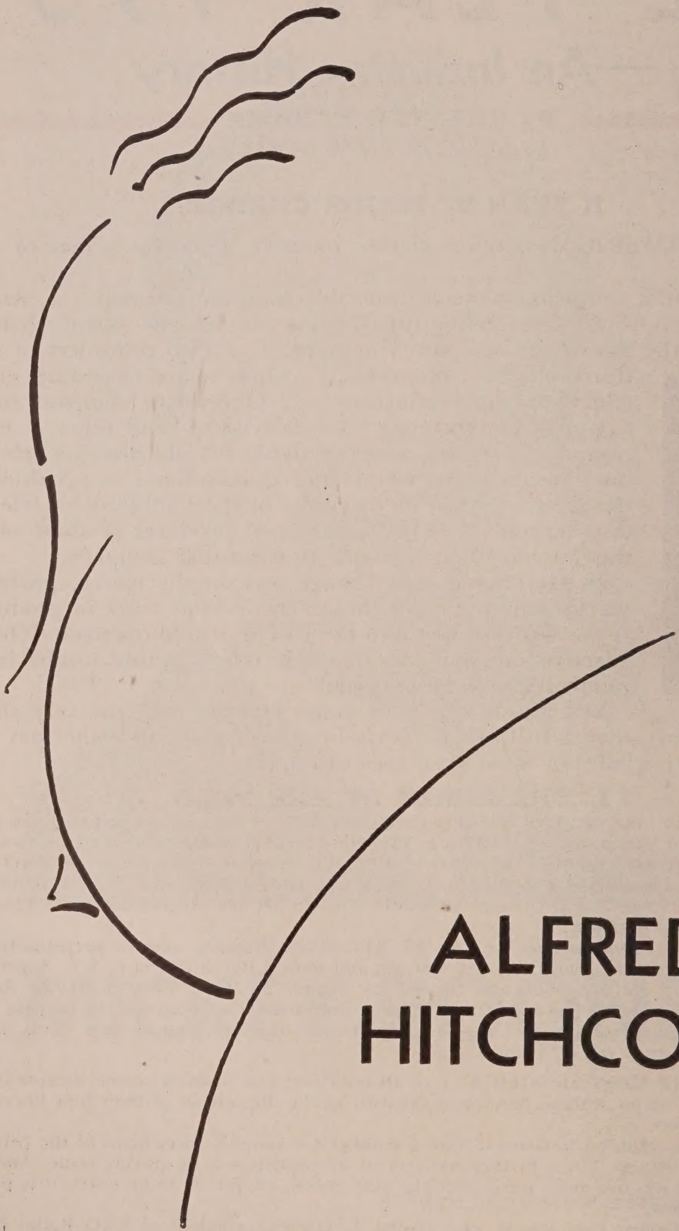
Howard R. Hughes, who since late March, 1954, had been the sole owner of RKO Radio Pictures, on July 18 sold the company, lock, stock and barrel, to General Tire & Rubber Co. through the latter's subsidiary, General Teleradio, for $25,000,000. Hughes had paid $23,489,478 when he effected its purchase.

Approximately five months later, on Dec. 23, RKO Radio Pictures sold—or perpetually leased—its entire film inventory, comprising 740 features and some 1,100 shorts, to C. & C. Super Corp., stock-controlled by Matthew Fox and headed by Walter S. Mack, for $15,200,000. Actually, $12,200,000 passed with the signing of the 325-page document, the remainder to be paid within 24 months. The purchaser acquired not only world-wide television and 16 mm rights, but the theatrical rights outside the U. S. and Canada.

● IT WAS THE MOST SIGNIFICANT of all television film deals yet made because it broke the solid ranks of major studios, heretofore opposed to the disposition of their film libraries for television exhibition.

The library sale returned to General Tire & Rubber Co. roughly three-fifths of the price paid for RKO Radio Pictures, but a further recovery of investment was to quickly come. And while its announcement was not made until after the year ended, on Jan. 6, to be exact, it is properly a part of this report.

At a press Conference held jointly with Daniel T. O'Shea, president of RKO Radio Pictures division of RKO Teleradio Pictures, the corporate designation for the merged RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., and General Teleradio, now a wholly owned General Tire and Rubber subsidiary, Thomas F. O'Neil, RTP president and board chairman of the RKO Radio Pictures division, announced that Hughes had bought back two pictures included in the July deal.



ALFRED HITCHCOCK

They were his personally produced "The Conqueror" and "Jet Pilot." To recapture them, Hughes, O'Neil said, paid $8,000,000 in cash, plus another $4,000,000 in costs to be paid off the top of his share of proceeds from the distribution of both pictures by RKO.

● THUS $23,200,000 of the General Tire & Rubber $25,000,000 investment had been recovered in less than six months, with the O'Neil-controlled corporation retaining such valuable assets as the original literary and film copyrights, RKO's two Coast Studios, the domestic and foreign distribution system, along with the rights reserved to exclusive domestic TV showings to the entire inventory for six vital markets in which GT&T owns stations, plus the first-run network or national TV rights in all domestic markets to 150 films selected from the inventory. The returns from these rights easily should exceed the $1,800,000 remaining to be recouped.

To make the July deal with Hughes, General Teleradio had borrowed $25,000,000 from Chase Manhattan and another $5,000,000 from its parent corporation. The loans were secured by a five-year note for $10,000,000, and a 10-year note for $15,000,000. With the closing of the C. & C. Super Corp. deal, $15,000,000 was promptly used to reduce the Chase Manhattan indebtedness and another $2,250,000 cancelled out that amount which General Tire & Rubber had advanced in late November to acquire the R. H. Macy & Co. 10 per cent interest in General Teleradio.

It is little wonder that motion picture company executives, economists and financiers agreed that with the entry of General Tire & Rubber into the film field something new indeed had been added. Or that they asked, What next?

NOTE: A proxy statement of the General Tire & Rubber Co., dated Jan. 27, 1956 disclosed that (1) RKO in selling the two pictures to Hughes had agreed to pay to Hughes a distribution license fee "equal to the purchase price, which must be paid by RKO in installments over three years from release of the pictures, plus 3¾ per cent interest on the unpaid balance" and (2) that in the instance of the C & C sale, RKO Radio "reserved to itself certain theatrical rights and also reserved to itself certain television rights in respect of which latter reservations RKO obligated itself to pay $3,000,000 over the three years following July 1, 1956."

II. PRINCIPAL EXECUTIVE CHANGES

¶ Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's, Inc. since the death in 1927 of company founder Marcus Loew, resigned as president on Dec. 14 and forthwith was named to a new company office, chairman of the board. To succeed Schenck, the board chose Arthur M. Loew, son of Marcus, and long president of Loew's International. That Loew was destined for a greater, perhaps the major role in the production-distribution company's affairs, was broadly hinted on March 13 when it was disclosed he had been assigned by President Schenck to make a comprehensive study of the Metro Culver City studio activities. Thereafter, Loew was a frequent Coast to Coast traveler. Upon assuming the parent company's presidency, he retained that of the International. His annual compensation remained unchanged at $200,000.

● As was to be expected, the sale of RKO Radio Pictures to the O'Neil General Tire & Rubber interests brought changes in its official family. Thomas F. O'Neil was immediately elected board chairman, and subsequently, on July 31, it was disclosed that James R. Grainger had resigned as president, remaining, however, as supervisor of world sales until Oct. 11 when he left the company. His successor as president was Daniel T. O'Shea, veteran motion picture executive, but more recently identified with television as senior vice president of CBS, Inc. For O'Shea it was a home-coming; he was first associated wth RKO as an attorney in 1930, later, 1932-36, was studio counsel during production regime of David O. Selznick, himself to return to the RKO fold under an exclusive production commitment.

● The appointment of George Weltner to head Paramount's world-wide sales and distribution was announced by President Barney Balaban in late February. Weltner, who retained the presidency of Paramount International, in effect domestically replaced Alfred W. Schwalberg, whose resignation preceded as president of Paramount Film Distributing Corp. Schwalberg organized Artists-Producers Associates. James E. Perkins thereafter was elected executive vice president of the international subsidiary. Following the death of Austin Keough, long Paramount vice president and general counsel, Louis Phillips was designated his successor.

● There were major changes at National Screen Service. Herman Robbins, associated with the company for more than 30 years, and the man responsible for its major growth, stepped up to the board chairmanship, with George Dembow succeeding to the presidency and Burton Robbins taking the sales vice presidency.

III. ON THE CORPORATE SIDE

IV. INTERNATIONAL: FERMENT OVERSEAS

¶ Ferment is the proper word for the international film scene in 1955, and whether or not American interests were directly concerned with some of the yeasty developments, they were most certainly to be affected.

Several of the American companies turned their attention to expansion moves abroad. Outstanding was that made by President Spyros P. Skouras on behalf of 20th-Fox to acquire control of African Theaters, Ltd., holding company for the Schlesinger African Consolidated Theaters, operating some 150 theaters from Capetown to Nairobi. It was disclosed in mid-June, finalized at the year-end.

Of scarcely less import and interest were the moves by Paramount and by Loew's. The Paramount move was in the Australian television field; the company joined with Australian interests in seeking a station in Sydney. Loew's move was in West Germany; it became the first American film company to acquire sites for a theater circuit there.

● But if American companies were concerned with opportunities abroad, foreign industries and companies were equally concerned with their potential in the American market. Perhaps the most significant development was the decision of France to establish a French Film Center in New York. Chosen to direct it was Joseph Martinatti, chief of staff for the French Minister of Commerce and Industry. While its mission is manyfold it does not extend to the actual sale and distribution of French pictures in this country.

Meanwhile, Italian Films Export, originally established to promote Italian pictures in the U. S., but which later entered into film distribution with American subsidy dollars, to all intents and purposes concentrated upon the latter and, for the first time, negotiated deals for non-Italian product, including one, "Lease on Life," bearing the Rank stamp.

British criticism of the failure of American theater operators to give substantial playing time to English pictures continued unabated in 1955, indeed actually increased. The TOA undertook by questionnaire to pinpoint the American exhibitors' reasons and the findings were duly transmitted to the British industry. It obviously was not impressed . . . or convinced.

● Otherwise, these were the more important of the overseas developments in chronological order:

JANUARY: 20th-Fox sold its Wembley Studios in Great Britain to the Rediffusion-Associated Newspapers group, the latter acquiring the property for the production of live commercial TV shows.

The Vatican established a new commission for film, television and radio study.

MARCH: The Egyptian Government assured the American Embassy in Cairo it would not impose restrictions on American film imports which had been sought by the Syndicate of Egyptian Producers.

A serious Italian color print problem was compromised.

APRIL: Chile authorized a 40 per cent increase in theater admission scales.

MAY: Variety Clubs International bestowed its Humanitarian Award upon Sir Winston Churchill.

United Artists' "Marty" became the first American picture to capture the Grand Prize at the Cannes International Film Festival.

French, Italian and West German producers organized the European Film Pool.

The Japanese tax on American film earnings was reduced from 20 to 15 per cent.

American distributors halted the export of new pictures to Denmark.

JUNE: The Union Internationale de l'Exploitation Cinemantographique meeting in Paris voted to urge all member associations to press for standard prints of anamorphic pictures.

American distrbiutors halted film shipments to Spain.

The American delegation to the International Organization for Standardization meeting in Stockholm proposed international standards for wide-screen films.

Republic set a long-term Canadian distribution deal with J. Arthur Rank Distributors, Ltd.

Monaco ratified the UNESCO-sponsored Universal Copyright Convention thus making it effective Sept. 16th. Italy's Nicola de Pirro criticized American film interests at the opening session of the Titanus international convention in Rome.

It was announced, on June 22, in London, that the J. Arthur Rank holdings in the Odeon group had been turned over to a charitable trust company in a move to insure that control will never go to foreign interests.

JULY—The Indian Motion Picture Producers Association proposed a screen quota.

Max Thorpe was named chairman of the board of British Columbia Pictures with M. J. Frankowich succeeding as managing director.

V. MPEA: AGREEMENTS AND DISAGREEMENTS

¶ The negotiation of three new major film agreements, two easily, the third with some difficulty, impasses which resulted in an embargo on film shipments to two countries, and new remittance arrangements with other countries, including Japan—these were the principal highlights of the MPEA year. Significantly, the association board in early May gave President Eric Johnston a free hand abroad to take such measures he might deem necessary to protect the distribution of American films.

The first of the new film agreements was with France. Negotiated by Marc Spiegel, the association's Continental manager, it was signed in Paris on Sept. 19; while the discussions covered several months, they were carried on in what was termed "the best possible atmosphere." It was a distinct change from the conditions prevailing when the expired agreement was negotiated.

Extending for two years, the agreement provides these benefits for American distributors:

1. An increase in the authorized monthly remittances at the official rate of exchange from $200,000 to $235,000. The remainder of American earnings are blocked, subject to certain uses.
2. In addition, any company with a picture entered in the annual International Film Festival at Cannes will be permitted to remit $50,000 at the official rate of exchange.
3. Import permits are increased from 90 to 110 per year.
4. The agreement is wholly free from any "subsidy" angle. This is in keeping with the policy enunciated during the past year by the MPEA; the policy resulted from SIMPP dissatisfaction with what it claimed was a subsidy arrangement attached to the agreement now expired.

A one-year extension of the British agreement was agreed upon with minimum of negotiation in London on Sept. 23 by conferees representing Her Brittanic Majesty's Government and both the MPEA and the SIMPP. Thus the American companies were guaranteed the free transfer of $17,000,000 in earnings plus an estimated $2,000,000 in so-called Eady money. The American negotiating team comprised Eric Johnston, G. Griffith Johnson and Fayette W. Allport, for the MPEA, and Ellis G. Arnall and Jack Lamont for the independent Society.

The real tug of war came in the negotiating of a new Italian film agreement. For a time, it looked like no dice. But on Nov. 29 President Johnston announced that a new three-year arrangement had been concluded, the fruit of Rome meetings between the MPEA's Johnson and Dr. Eitel Monaco, president of ANICA.

The American industry agreed to accept 470,000,000 lire—about $700,000—for dubbing certificates held by producers and worth 2,800,000,000 lire at their maturity years hence; to accept a new dubbing loan or "tax" of 5,500,000 lire as against the old 2,500,000 lire, and to accept an increase in the Italian screen quota from 80 to 100 days.

There was ready general agreement that it easily could have been a much worse bargain. Italian producers had proposed a 10,000,000 lire dubbing figure, the limitation of American film permits to 100.

● The countries to have embargoes imposed were Denmark and Spain. The Danish embargo was ordered in late May in retaliation for the Danish Government's adamant refusal to increase the existing 30 per cent ceiling on film rentals .

Shipments to Spain were suspended in early June when an impasse was reached in new agreement negotiations. On July 24, THE FILM DAILY reported that the Spanish Government had agreed to a year's extension of the expired agreement. Then, suddenly and without warning, the Government in early August decreed a distributors quota, requiring the release of one Spanish picture for every four foreign pictures. Once again, the fat was in the fire—the agreement went unsigned and there were no American film shipments. As a further complication, in mid-November it was disclosed that the Spanish Government was seeking to apply a new 20 per cent tax to the so-called New York share of company earnings there.

In date December, the United States Government and the West German Government reached an agreement in Bonn safeguarding the American film industry from the imposition of discriminatory restrictions for a minimum period of two years. The West German Government in initiating the talks in early May, had as its objective the elimination of the 27 per cent screen quota ceiling established in a special GATT provision, never invoked, however. Not unnaturally, the export association followed the developments with keenest possible interest. Its listening post was manned by Frederick Gronich, West German representative.

● Of the several remittances arrangements, that worked out in Tokyo by Vice President Irving Maas to dispose of accumulated blocked yen was unique and extraordinary indeed. The total amount involved was the equivalent of upwards of $12,000,000. The arrangement was conditioned upon a six-year loan of $7,500,000 to the Government-controlled Electric Power Development Co., Ltd. Five of Japan's leading trust banks were designated to administer the loan, which carries three per cent interest and is repayable after three years in seven equal semiannual instalments, each remittable immediately in dollars. Interest, too, is likewise so remittable.

The five-year agreement with Argentina expired and a six months' extension from May 12 to Nov. 12 was granted at the request of the Peron Government. Before a new agreement could be negotiated, the Government was desposed by revolution. The new regime, while not entering into agreement negotiations, smoothed the path of American distributors. While earnings prior to June 30, approximating 60,000,000 pesos remain blocked, remittance of current earnings were made remittable at the free market rate and import restrictions were ended.

As for the general condition of the international market, President Johnston on Dec. 19 in Hollywood reported that industry earnings overseas for the year would approximate 49 to 50 per cent of total revenue as against 45 per cent in 1954. He estimated foreign revenue for 1955 at $212 to $215 millions. The fly in the ointment: the increase abroad would not fully offset the drop in domestic earnings.

● Other principal MPEA developments were:

Irving Maas and Robert J. Corkery were elected vice-presidents on Jan. 11. And on Jan. 27, Joaquin D. Rickard was named a special consultant to the association.

In late March, American distributors tapped the accumulated American film earnings in Chile to the extent of half a million dollars. The arrangement was worked out by Vice-President Robert J. Corkery.

Appointment of Leo D. Hochstetter as the association's Far East manager, with headquarters in Tokyo, was announced on July 12.

Appointment of F. McNeill Ackland, as Australian and New Zealand representative of MPEA, was disclosed by THE FILM DAILY on Aug. 22. Ackland previously had served as chairman of the Australian Motion Picture Distributors' Association.

THE FILM DAILY, on Sept. 12, exclusively reported the resignation of Eugene Van Dee as the MPEA's representative for Italy and Spain.

On Oct. 31, the MPEA board authorized the appointment of a committee of 10 to devise a master formula for import permit division; the issue was unresolved as the year ended.

VI. MPAA: HANDS ACROSS THE SEAS

¶ The Motion Picture Association, increasingly conscious of the importance of the international market, was host in Washington for a meeting of the Administrative Council of the International Federation of Film Producers Associations. It was the first Federation meeting to be held outside Europe. The Council authorized a world-wide review of film barriers with the initial study devoted to hindrances imposed by Belgium. The Council voted to bar the film organizations of Iron Curtain countries from membership. The delegates to the meetings were told by American industry representatives at a forum arranged by the MPAA that there is an unprecedented American market for foreign films.

● Chronologically, these were the other MPAA developments of import:

President Johnston, on Jan. 9, requested the Treasury Department to include the film industry in legislation providing for a 14 per cent tax credit on earnings from American business investments abroad. A few days later, Johnston recommended to the Treasury that foreign film producers and distributors be exempt from a 30 per cent withholding tax now imposed on their American film rentals.

On Apr. 13, the MPAA board elected Geoffrey Shurlock a vice-president and, at the same time, elected Stanley Weber treasurer and Thomas McNamara assistant treasurer.

On May 1, Adolph Schimel was appointed chairman of the MPAA Law Committee, succeeding the late Austin C. Keough.

On July 18, Morris Ebenstein, of Waner Bros., was elected chairman of the MPAA Copyright Committee.

● In September, the MPAA asked Congress to repeal the levy on film import earnings and subsequently urged a cut in foreign tariffs on films.

On Nov. 20, the MPAA charged that the constitutional guarantees of motion pictures have been seriously eroded in a statement filed with the Senate Judiciary's subcommittee on Constitutional Rights.

In early December, William F. Rodgers, Jr., joined the New York staff of the Association as assistant to the executive vice-president, Ralph Hetzel.

On Dec. 5, the American Civil Liberties Union, in a letter to President Johnston, called for the elimination of the Production Code.

President Johnston was elected board chairman of the Washington Brick & Lime Co., of Spokane, in late April. And, in early August, the Senate confirmed his appointment for a new term as chairman of the International Development Advisory Board.

¶ The National Legion of Decency in May asked the PCA to strengthen the Production Code bars and increase story selectivity. In December, the Roman Catholic Bishops' Committee on Motion Pictures went further, charging laxity in applying the Code and a tendency to distort and evade its principles and rules.

Yet the PCA during the year refused Code seals to three features, two of them of foreign origin. One was the British-made "I Am a Camera," distributed by DCA here. The second import was Ellis Films' "Three Forbidden Stories." The third was Otto Preminger's UA release, "The Man With the Golden Arm."

There were two sharp reactions. Ellis Films filed a $150,000 anti-trust action, United Artists promptly resigned from the MPAA.

There was in evidence a feeling that something would have to be done by the Motion Picture Association—and that it would when the time was deemed right.

VIII. CENSORSHIP: SIGNIFICANT DEFEATS

¶ Political censorship sustained significant defeats in three states—Kansas, Ohio and Massachusetts. And on the municipal level, Memphis (and Selby County) censorship, long a thorn in the Hollywood side, seemed on the way out with the retirement of Lloyd T. Binford.

● In the instance of Kansas, the victory over censorship finally was made complete on Dec. 5 when the U. S. Supreme Court denied the petition of the State for a re-hearing. The high bench on Oct. 24 had first found the Kansas statute unconstitutional, reversing a Kansas Supreme Court decision in a case involving the controversial "The Moon Is Blue."

The Kansas censorship situation was complex, to put it mildly. Earlier, on April 7, Kansas Gov. Fred Hall had signed into law a censorship repeal measure, effective June 30. A few days later, the State's Supreme Court ruled that the Kansas State Board of Review was within its rights in banning the Otto Preminger production. Late in May, the Kansas Attorney General, Harold R. Fatzer, appealed to the state high court from a decision by Judge Dean McElhenny of the Shawnee County District Court holding the repeal measure to be constitutional. The Attorney General's action followed reference to him of certain stills from the "Garden of Eden" by the chairman of the Board of Review.

The Kansas Supreme Court on June 19 ruled the censorship repeal legislation unconstitutional; it had been attached as a rider to a bill for the repeal of an obsolete motor carrier law. That left censorship in effect until the U. S. Supreme Court ruled adversely in October.

● In Ohio, the first judicial blow against censorship was struck on Jan. 7 when the state's Second District Court of Appeals ruled the censorship statute "unconstitutional and void." The pro-censorship forces rallied to press for new legislation, and had the backing of the state administration. In late June, the Ohio Senate defeated a motion to bring the new censorship legislation out of committee and to the floor for a vote. It was a signal industry victory.

However, Ohio Gov. Frank Lausche, favorable to prior censorship, in August approved a suggestion that he continue the statutory three-member advisory board on film censorship.

Meanwhile, if prior censorship had been knocked out in the Buckeye State, a new regulatory law had been enacted and became effective on Oct. 6. The first arrest under it was made less than a week later. Richard Calvine Kline, manager of a drive-in theater, was arrested and charged with "possession of an obscene motion picture film and with knowingly exhibiting it to a minor under 18 years of age." The picture was "Teaserama," and the print seized had all the cuts required to permit its exhibition in both New York and Pennsylvania.

● In Massachusetts, where film censorship long had been restricted to Sunday exhibition, the Supreme Judicial Court on July 6 found it to be "void on its face as a prior restraint on freedom of speech and the press," in suits which had been instituted by the Brattle Theater of Cambridge and Times Film Corp. of New York. The court's ruling was unanimous.

The Brattle Theater had appealed in late January from pre-censorship ruling by the Middlesex Superior Court; the picture involved was a Swedish import, "Miss Julie." In the Times Film action filed in late March, there were two pictures whose Sabbath showing was at stake—"Game of Love" and "One Summer of Happiness."

Justice Raymond Wilkins, speaking for the five-man court in striking out Sunday censorship after 47 years, referred to the Constitutional guarantees shared by the screen with the press, and declared:

"It is unthinkable that there is a force, absent as to secular days, to recognize the submission to advance scrutiny by governmental authorities of newspapers to be published on Sunday, or sermons to be preached on Sunday, or public addresses to be made on Sunday."

● Other censorship developments of import during the year included these:

On Feb. 21, Kenneth Clark, MPAA vice-president, told the Maryland Legislature, by letter, that the newsreel should be as free of censorship as is radio and television.

On Feb. 24, C. Morton Goldstein, a former judge of People's Court in Baltimore, replaced Sidney R. Traub as chairman of the Maryland Board of Motion Picture Censors. The new chairman declared censorship henceforth would be based on the law rather than on personal opinion.

In late March, the Memphis Board of Censors for a second time banned "The Bamboo Prison." But, in early April, the board reversed.

On Apr. 4, The U. S. Supreme Court declined to consider an appeal by the American Civil Liberties Union against the Chicago ban of "The Miracle." The high court's order found a "want of a final judgment" in the lower courts.

In mid-April, a bill to create a Connecticut Amusement Board of Review failed of support before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

In mid-May, the Seattle Board of Theatre Supervisors took on the complexion of a film censor board.

In early June, Loew's filed suit in Federal District Court, Atlanta, challenging the Atlanta censor rule; the suit followed the banning of "The Blackboard Jungle."

● On June 21, Pope Pius XII, speaking at a special audience for guests at the Titanus Films convention voiced support of the desirability of Governments to exercise motion picture censorship .

On July 10, Gov. Stratton, of Illinois, vetoed a bill which would have given the Cook County censor board power to censor films in territory outside Chicago.

In late July, Miami's city commissioners unanimously announced a proposal to extend the functions of the city's Board of Review to include film censorship.

In late November, Chicago ordered the censorship of 16 mm. films exhibited in the city's taverns and directed that taverns exhibiting films secure a city amusement license.

In December, Capitol Enterprises launched a new 3-point attack in an appeal from the banning of "Mom and Dad."

IX. SIMPP: MEMBERSHIP GROWTH

¶ The Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers through its export subsidiary moved to sell pictures abroad for its members, and the activity was reflected in a membership increase to 44. . . . President Ellis G. Arnall negotiated an Italian agreement assuring the Society comparable MPAA treatment. . . . The Society asked that independent producers have a voice in determining PCA policy; the MPAA was discreetly silent. . . . Samuel Goldwyn Prods. resigned in early May from the Society. Explained Goldwyn: he felt there was no longer any purpose to be served by the Society. It was obvious his was a very minority opinion.

X. COMPO: YEAR OF THE POLL

ROBERT FELLOWS

Through COMPO, for the first time, those who go to the movies were given the opportunity to ballot for the outstanding picture of the year, the stars of the year, the new personalities of the year.

Theaters participating in the election numbered about 6,500, and some 15,000,000 ballots were cast. The totals in both categories could have been larger, granted, but for a first time, it was an excellent showing. The organization established by COMPO to conduct the canvass was headed by President Elmer C. Rhoden of National Theaters.

The winners were announced at a gala dinner at the Beverly Hilton Hotel in Hollywood on Dec. 6; earlier plans for a telecast were dropped. They were:

Best Picture: Warners' "Mister Roberts."

Best Actor Performance: James Dean (deceased) in Warners' "East of Eden."

Best Actress Performance: Jentnifer Jones in Twentieth Century-Fox's "Love Is a Many-Splendored Thing."

Most Promising Male Personality: Tab Hunter.

Most Promising Female Personality: Peggy Lee.

● The membership of COMPO at the annual meeting in New York on Dec. 15 heard a series of recommendations for improvement of the poll, then voted to conduct one in 1956. That many, if not all the recommendations, would be followed was certain.

Otherwise, the COMPO year was marked by some dissension in the ranks, climaxed by the failure of National Allied to renew its membership (although the door was left open should "reforms" and personnel changes sought by Allied result) and the resignation of the Allied Ohio and Texas state units. Among the Allied grievances was COMPO's failure to enter the lists against subscription television, although it was apparent that had this been formally presented and voted upon, at least one veto, and possibly two or more, would have been cast.

There was also an Allied difference of opinion as to the desirability of a new campaign during the 1956 session of the Congress for the elimination of the remaining Federal admissions tax. However, the COMPO membership at the annual membership meeting authorized the further campaign. On Oct. 16, Special Counsel Robert W. Coyne had told the House Ways and Means Committee that repeal of the movie admissions tax would cost the Government less than $30,000,000 annually.

● Other principal membership decisions: To continue the advertising campaign in Editor & Publisher, although on a curtailed basis; reference to committee of the matter of industry research, deferment of action upon a group insurance plan; reference to the press relations committee of a proposal by Leonard H. Goldenson, AB-PT, that efforts me made to rebuild feminine movie attendance; to modify COMPO spending.

● The vacancy in the triumvirate occasioned by National Allied's action was filled by the designation of Special Counsel Coyne, to serve with Al Lichtman, representing the MPAA member companies, and Sam Pinanski, TOA's representative. Meanwhile consideration was to be given to a return to the original officer format of a president and executive vice-president.

This was favored by exhibitor organization representatives, but found disfavor with Lichtman. The governing committee has worked very well indeed, he affirmed.

XI. ARBITRATION

¶ FOR ARBITRATION, it was another "Quo Vadis?" year.

Although there were such January headlines in The Film Daily as "Complete Arbitration Draft by Mid-February," "Arbitration Seen Working by September" and "OK Arbitration Draft in Principle," it was the same old story—the year ended with arbitration still lacking substance, and broad hints it would continue so in 1956.

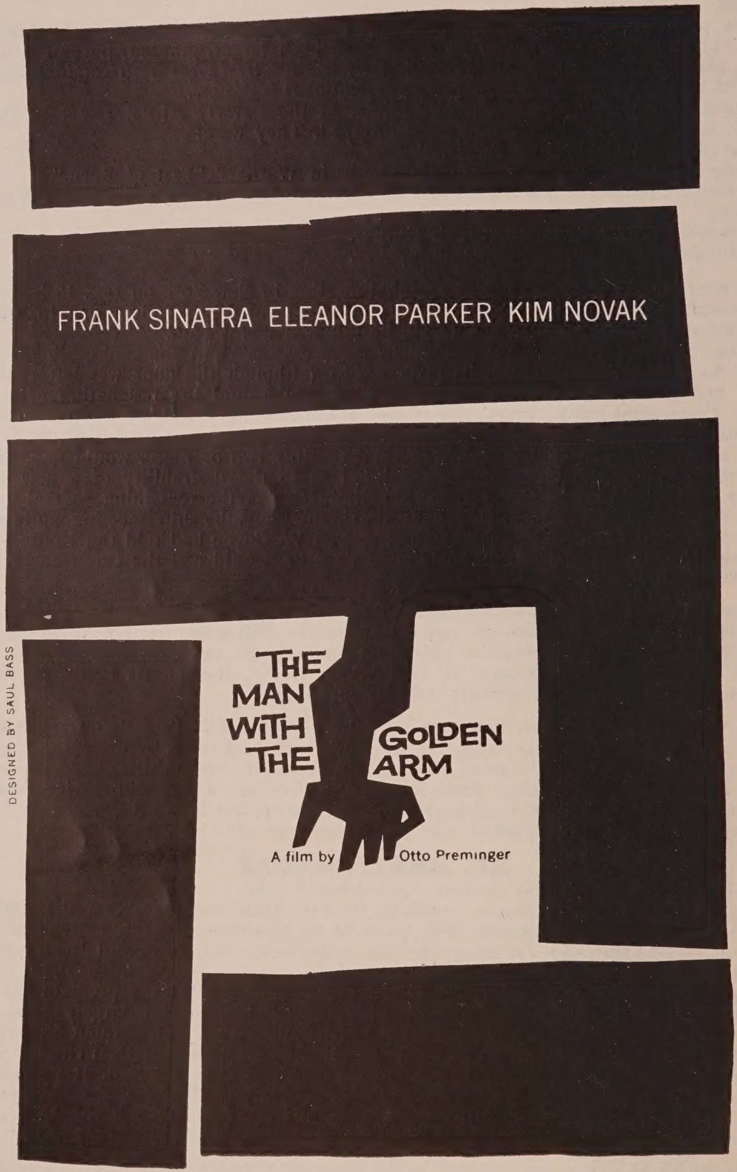
On Aug. 15, The Film Daily exclusively revealed that exhibitor representatives on the arbitration agreement drafting committee had approved a document largely reflecting the earnest labors of Adolph Schimel, counsel for the distributors' side, and Herman M. Levy, acting similarly for the exhibitors side. Subsequently, the distributors representatives cleared the draft, and on Sept. 26, the proposed text of the 65-page agreement was released. It provided for a one-year test, the system to be organized and in operation within three months of its acceptance not only by exhibitor associations but the Department of Justice through the U. S. Attorney General and the U. S. Statutory Court.

● FILM RENTALS were not included in the proposed system's scope, which establishes these as the controversies covered:

Clearance: Related to theatres not in substantial competition, or over excessive clearance to theatres in substantial competition.

Runs: Refusal of equal opporunity to license on a desired run.

Competitive bidding: May be instigated by distributor only at an exhibitor's request. A successful bid must be made available at the request of an exhibitor within 14 days of the closing of the deal.



FRANK SINATRA ELEANOR PARKER KIM NOVAK
THE MAN WITH THE GOLDEN ARM
A film by Otto Preminger
DESIGNED BY SAUL BASS

Otto Preminger is preparing 'Bonjour Tristesse,' from the best-seller, for MGM and 'The Wheel,' based on the life of Mahatma Gandhi, for Columbia release.

Conditioning: Distributors may not condition the licensing of one picture or group of pictures on the licensing of others. This is applicable to both features and shorts.

Contract violations: Charges that distributors have violated terms of a contract with an exhibitor are arbitratable.

Specific exclusions: Two pictures may be designated by each distributor in each 12 months after the effective date of arbitration as of "unusual character," and these are to be excluded from all provisions of the arbitration agreement until such time as they are placed in general distribution.

For the complete text of the proposed agreement, refer to THE FILM DAILY of Sept. 27.

While the draft was quickly accepted by New York ITOA and later by TOA, it was tabled by the New York MMPTA and rejected by National Allied and the Southern California TOA. At the end of November, the MPAA Law Committee approved. In early December, THE FILM DAILY reported that it was proposed to finance the system through the production and distribution of a documentary subject, sponsored by an industrial corporation. It was a unique idea, to say the least.

At the year end, the draft still awaited reference to the Department of Justice. At least some observers wondered why.

XII. IN THE EXHIBITION FIELD

¶ The two great national exhibitors' associations, the Theater Owners of America and Allied States Association, heretofore concerned wholly with the domestic field, both became internationally-minded during 1955. In decisions which could become historic, first the TOA and then National Allied, voted affiliation with the Union International de l'Exploitation Cinematographique, whose membership previously was wholly European. To a large extent, such affiliation was due to the missionary zeal of the Union's Italian president, Comm. Italo Gemini, who visited this country to press for it. The TOA found it feasible to dispatch its own new president, Myron Blank, to Rome for the Union's convention in late October.

The president of Central States circuit told the convention that foreign producers can earn in American film rental more than $50,000,000 annually by producing a dozen top features acceptable to American audiences. There was lively interest in foreign production circles.

● In April, National Allied made the first international move, designating Julius M. Gordon as its representative abroad. Gordon, president of two Texas theatre companies, Jefferson Amusement and East Texas Theatres, and secretary of National Allied, returned with a report to the effect that American companies accepted rental limitations abroad while refusing acceptance here.

TOA President Blank was not the first representative of that organization to look over the European scene. First to go in May was Walter Reade, Jr., a former president, and he became the first U. S. exhibitor leader to address a CEA function. Later, Herman M. Levy, veteran general counsel of TOA, went to Europe on what was officially described as an exhibitor unity mission. He too addressed CEA functions, went on to Scotland for still anther speaking engagement.

In mid-July, the TOA itself became an international organization with the affiliation of the Theatre Owners Association of Quebec.

● Apart from this significant broadening of organizational horizons the most important exhibition development of the year was the apparent—that word is important— failure of a joint approach by TOA and National Allied to the solution of domestic trade issues. The latter's board at its meeting in St. Louis in February has approved a meeting with TOA as a means of advancing their common interests. But by late August, the entente cordiale was all over, and National Allied President Rube Shor in a letter to TOA President E. D. Martin castigated TOA for spurning Government action. Allied directed its Emergency Defense Committee to press for the introduction and passage of Federal legislation regulating film rentals, and thereafter, at its November convention, adopted a local action program designed to enhance the committee's effectiveness. A week later, TOA's President Blank, asserted that his organization was not adverse to Government regulation as such. Otherwise, as regards the two national bodies, this was the year's story, told chronologically:

● TOA:

Resignation of Richard Pitts, as director of public relations, was announced on Jan. 4.

United Theatre Owners of Illinois, in early April, became the first TOA unit to establish a conciliation setup.

On May 24, TOA for the first time came out openly in favor of film rental arbitration in a meeting with 20th-Fox officials.

In late July, TOA launched a theatre safety drive.

On Aug. 10, Walter Reade, Jr., TOA board chairman, proposed that the first all-industry trade show and simultaneous public exhibition be held in Sept., 1956, in the New York Coliseum.

On Nov. 21, President Blank told the Missouri Theatre Owners convention that the Govern.

EDWARD SMALL PRODUCTIONS, INC.

ment and the courts have been responsible for the creation of an even greater monopoly in distribution.

In announcing, on Dec. 13, the results of a survey of American theatre owners, TOA affirmed that exhibitors here harbor "no basic prejudice" against British product.

● ALLIED:

In mid-March, National Allied charged a misuse in the name COMPO by the Rocky Mountain Council of Motion Picture Organizations.

In mid-May, National Allied gained a new affiliate with the organization of the Kentucky Exhibitors Association.

At its July meeting in Washington, Allied's board announced it was "now prepared and determined to go forward with the entire Emergency Defense Committee program."

On Oct. 24, General Counsel Abram F. Myers, told the convention of New England's Independent Exhibitors, that the proposed arbitration agreement would legalize prereleases.

At meeting, in November, Allied's board voted to admit the United Theatre Owners of Oklahoma, formed by a merger of TOA and Allied state units there to membership.

XIII. ON THE GOVERNMENT FRONT

¶ Industry equality under the law moved a giant's step forward when Federal Judge Leon H. Yankwich on Dec. 6 in Federal Court, Los Angeles, found for the defendant producers and distributors in the celebrated 16 mm., antitrust suit brought by the Department of Justice.

In his 80-page opinion of some 30,000 words, the Chief U. S. District Judge in Los Angeles established for the first time the law relating to the right of movie companies to regulate the distribution of 16 mm. editions of standard size, or 35 mm. pictures.

Judge Yankwich noted the Sherman Act "condemns only unreasonable restraints," and added that competition is not "an absolute" under American law and economy and that business practices affecting interstate commerce that put some restraints on competition do not necessarily violate the antitrust laws.

● While the court found that many of the restrictive practices complained of by the Government do exist, nonetheless he ruled that the testimony in the record "warrants the conclusion that whatever similarity exists" in the pattern for marketing 16 mm. films to nontheatrical sources "was due to the similarity of the problem with which producers were confronted."

Further, he stressed that each defendant had to consider the effect of the release of 16 mm. films on the business of its primary source of income, the regular theatre. Judge Yankwich said he felt it is unreasonable to expect movies to help a medium which provided "free entertainment" to merchandise other persons' products.

● The trial which began Sept. 22 lasted for six weeks, during which 700 exhibits were introduced and approximately 4,000 pages of testimony were taken. The five defendants were Twentieth-Fox, Warner Brothers, RKO-Radio, Columbia and Universal and certain subsidiaries.

Three other original defendants, Republic, Pictorial Films and Films Inc. signed a consent decree settlement before the trial. Judge Yankwich's ruling supersedes the decree conditions.

In early February, Federal Judge Harry C. Westover had granted a Government motion to add Allied States Association, ITOA, MMPTA, SCTOA, the disbanded PCCITO and COMPO as co-conspirators. In the original July, 1952, complaint, TOA was the only co-conspirator named.

● Otherwise, these were the important developments on the Government front:

The Department of Justice on Feb. 1 approved the National Theatres divestiture plan.

The New York State Temporary Commission on Fiscal Affairs in its final report on Feb. 16 recommended continuance of municipal permissive taxes.

The U. S. Attorney General a few days later advised the SCTOA the Department of Justice was unaware of any trend toward monopoly in the drive-in field despite the organization's charge to the contrary.

The New York State Court of Appeals on May 26 upheld the New York City five per cent amusement tax.

Death in Buffalo of Federal Judge Judge John Knight before he could hand down his decision made necessary a retrial of the Government's criminal contempt case against the Schines. The first 13-week trial started on March 13, the contempt litigation an aftermath of the Schine antitrust suit brought by the Govrenment in 1939 which ended with a consent decree in 1949. The retrial was left for 1956.

XIV. THE TRADE IN THE COURTS

¶ THE UNHAPPY STATE of relations existing between distribution and exhibition was acutely reflected in the area of trade litigation.

Not only was there a rise in the number of new theatre antitrust suits filed, but there was a drop in the number of actions settled.

● New suits filed in 1955 totaled 42, of which 31 asked damages aggregating $61,329,750. The remaining 11 sought unspecified or undetermined damages, or other relief.

In 1954, 38 suits seeking single or trebled damages were filed, and damages demanded in the aggregate were $55,349,000.

Suits settled out of court numbered 21; total damages sought in these actions was upward of $115,000,000. A year ago, 55 suits asking damages aggregating $51,125,000 were settled.

● Theatre plaintiffs were victorious in three actions following trial. However, in all instances verdicts were far lower than the damages which had been asked. The verdict in one case was $1,275,000 as against $4,775,000 sought; in another, $60,000 as against $2,436,000; in the third, $3,000 as against $908,000.

Defendants won one suit after trial; the plaintiff had sued for $750,000.

One suit was settled after trial had started; another was dropped after pre-trial hearings; a third was dismissed by the court which held there was no cause for action.

In one action, where a jury had returned a $2,406,602 verdict, the court subsequently reduced the award to $1,334,402.

● In the field of industry litigation, these were other of the more important entries:

On March 28, the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that William Goldman Theatres, Inc., of Philadelphia, must pay taxes on the $375,000 verdict awarded in a Federal antitrust suit against Loew's.

On Apr. 12, the U. S. Supreme Court refused to review a charge of restraint of trade leveled by the G & P Amusement Co. against a group of Ohio distributors and exhibitors.

In mid-May, Samuel Davis, a 16 mm. distributor in Miami, filed an unusual antitrust suit seeking to force distributors to provide him with films at "reasonable prices."

On June 12, the U. S. Supreme Court refused to interfere in a Circuit Court of Appeals decision directing a new trial of the antitrust suit brought by the Center Theatre of Greenville, Miss.

On Aug. 10, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the Seventh District returned the Towne Theatre vs. United Artists suit to the trial court for further specific findings.

On Sept. 12, it was announced that the antitrust suit against certain Terre Haute, Ind., theatre operators had been settled by stipulation in which the defendants agreed to refrain from making pooling agreements and sharing joint profits.

● On Sept. 13, Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick, in Philadelphia, ruled that a plaintiff as a landlord who is not operating a theatre alleged to be the object of conspiracy is without standing to sue under the antitrust laws. Judge Kirkpatrick entered a summary judgment for the defendants in a $375,000 antitrust suit brought by the Melrose Realty Co.

On Oct. 13, Joseph A. Fields and Jerome Chodorov, authors of the original stage and screen versions of "My Sister Eileen," filed a $6,000,000 damage action against Columbia charging that the company's musical version is a sequel to the dramatic production rather than a remake.

On Dec. 8, the Keyport Theatre Co., operating the Strand in Keyport, N. J., was denied the right to intervene in a move by Loew's Theatres to secure a 50 per cent interest in a proposed drive-in at Raritan, N.J.

● On Dec. 11, Federal Judge James M. Carter, in Los Angeles, ruled that burlesquing parts of a motion picture for television generally does not constitute a copyright infringement.

On Dec. 14, Nassau County Theatre real estate owners whose properties are leased to Skouras Theatres and Metropolitan Playhouses, filed a $9,450,000 antitrust action in New York. The same plaintiffs already had a suit pending in New York Supreme Court involving their share of concessions revenue from the several theatres.

On Dec. 18, Federal Judge William H. Kirkpatrick banned National Screen Service screen contracts for six months in a decree entered in the suit brought by a group of independent poster exchanges. The decree subsequently was suspended pending an appeal by National Screen Service.

XV. TV: A NEW FILM BUSINESS

¶ These were the major developments of the year in television, from the motion picture industry viewpoint:

● The toll TV question went to the Federal Communications Commission, but was unresolved at the year end. . . . Meanwhile, Brig. Gen. David Sarnoff proposed that it be a 1956 Presidential election issue.

HENRY KOSTER

- Three major film companies made the TV production plunge—Twentieth-Fox, Warners and Loew's. "20th Century-Fox Presents" became a CBS-TV network show, while "The M-G-M Parade" and "Warner Bros. Presents" went to ABC-TV. Those who expected immediate perfection were disappointed necessarily; obviously it had to be a case of trial-and-error. That applied as well to another Hollywood video show, the "Screen Directors Playhouse" with which the SDG braved the air waves. The Screen Producers Guild remained aloof from video.

- Two new major British pictures, Sir Alexander Korda's "The Constant Husband" and "Richard III," were acquired for telecasting by NBC-TV. The former was the first new theatrical feature ever to have its American premiere on television. "Richard III" was held over for 1956 telecasting on the same day that the picture opens its first U. S. roadshow engagement in New York's Bijou. For "The Constant Husband," starring Rex Harrison, NBC paid a reported $200,000; for Sir Laurence Olivier's Shakespearean vehicle, the price was up to $500,000, but the contract enables NBC to share up to $40,000 in the picture's theatrical revenues. It is indeed a brand new film business, thanks to television.

- Improvements were reported made in 20th-Fox's Eidephor large-screen color television by General Electric engineers, but demonstration was left for 1956.

- Walter Wanger was elected president of Sheraton Closed Circuit Television, and hotels instead of theatres captured industrial closed circuit business.

- DuMont Broadcasting Corp., was spun off from the Allen B. DuMont Laboratories.

- While the perpetual lease of RKO Radio's film inventory to C. & C. Television Corp., was the outstanding television-film deal of the year, there were others of import, notably these:

Paramount disposed of some 1,100 shorts, produced through September, 1950, to UM & M TV Corp. for a reported $3,000,000; CBS purchased the assets of Paul Terry's Terrytoons, Inc. for $5,000,000 and dissolved the company; J. Arthur Rank sold 139 features to AB-PT in two deals reported to involve upwards of $3,500,000; MCA-TV purchased 123 Roy Rogers and Gene Autry Westerns from Republic; National Telefilm Associates acquired 10 David O. Selznick features for television distribution in the U. S. and Canada for a five-year period. The price paid was upwards of $100,000 a feature in a deal made possible by court decree.

- In chronological order, these were the other more important television developments of the year:

On Jan. 17, Republic Pictures announced the closing of a four-million-dollar deal with Sax Rohmer for exclusive rights to "Dr. Fu Manchu" for radio, television and motion pictures.

On Feb. 1, Guild Films announced the organization of MPTV Films, Inc., to distribute MPTV features acquired in its deal with Matty Fox.

On Feb. 23, It was announced NBC had signed an agreement with United Productions of America covering a cartoon project for television a la Disney.

On Feb. 24, the U. S. Court of Appeals, in Washington, in an unanimous decision, declared "unlawful and without force or effect" a FCC rule limiting the number of stations which may be owned by the same television interests.

On March 8, the motion picture box office dipped in varying degrees as the telecast of "Peter Pan," with Mary Martin, drew an estimated 65 million audience.

On March 10, President Milton R. Rackmill advised Universal stockholders that the company definitely will enter telepix production and that eventually its film inventory will be sold for television use.

- On April 11, FCC Examiner, William G. Butts, held that the cause of diversification of mass media is better served by a television station grant to the only theatre owner in the city than to the only newspaper publisher there.

On April 13, Comdr. E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of Zenith Radio Corp., asked for an investigation of the NARTB's anti-toll TV stand by the Department of Justice, the FCC and the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce.

On April 18, it was announced that C & C Super Corp., essentially a soft drink manufacturer, had acquired Western Television, Inc. from Matty Fox through a stock deal which gave Fox controlling interest. C & C's primary purpose was to obtain television time credits which had accrued with Fox's Western Television.

On April 24, it was announced that Elliot Hyman's Associated Artists Prods. was acquiring 35 Pine-Thomas features from Paramount with television exhibition to follow theatrical distribution. However, in October, it was reported that the AFM was withholding approval of broadcasting rights to the music tracks of the pictures.

Phonevision rights for the United Kingdom were acquired by Sir Alexander Korda, from Zenith Radio Corp., in a deal announced on June 2.

● On June 13, it was announced that Joseph Seidelman and associates had purchased Unity Television Corp. from Archie Mayers.

On Aug. 17, Y. Frank Freeman told THE FILM DAILY that Paramount will not enter television production but that its subsidiary station, KTLA, would produce features on Paramount's new two-million-dollar television lot.

As August ended, Walter Winchell sued the American Broadcasting Co. for $7,000,000 damages and lost income.

On Oct. 24 a new Motiograph-Trad closed circuit large screen television projector was demonstrated.

On Nov. 21, the Screen Producers Guild, in announcing its decision not to enter the television field, explained that it "feels that its prestige would be seriously damaged were it to conform to the standards and practices generally in use in the television industry."

On Dec. 8, the First Constitutional Convention of the merged AFL and CIO, by resolution, opposed toll TV.

XVI. NEW PROCESSES: AND MORE TO COME

¶ THE MOTION picture audience was introduced to the Todd-AO process with the premiere of "Oklahoma" at the New York Rivoli on Oct. 10. THE FILM DAILY found the process "impressive," and its first use yielding "a big, lavish show, and fine entertainment for the widest possible audience."

Twentieth-Fox produced "Carousel" in 55 mm. CinemaScope but, while test reels were shown and stirred wide enthusiasm, the premiere of the picture was left for 1956.

Meanwhile, development progressed with 65 mm. Panavision, which uses a new optical system and with Cinemiracle, the latter, a new three-panel projection system enlisting the sponsorship of National Theatres,, while Republic prepared to introduce in 1956 its own anamorphic lens system, Naturama, which employs a projection aspect ratio of 2.35 to 1. Naturama was developed by Republic and Consolidated Film Laboratories engineers.

A glimpse of things to come was given in February when Frank Harly, executive director of the electronics division of Bing Crosby Enterprises, predicted that the industry within five years would be using visual tape recordings. In July, BCE demonstrated an improved color video tape recorder in Hollywood.

XVII. LABOR: ON THE MARCH

¶ A NEW way of life for those engaged in production was decreed on Oct. 23 when it was formally announced in Hollywood that the AMPP and the IATSE had agreed upon a new studio contract providing for the inaugural of the five-day week for approximately 15,000 workers on Jan. 30 next. Estimates of the added cost of production ranged up to 20 per cent.

The contract, extending to Jan. 30, 1959 also provided for a general increase in wages of 2½ per cent, effective Jan. 30 next. Its estimated annual cost: $3,910,000.

Under the five-day schedule, weekly employes receive the same pay they were paid for six days, with reduced schdules of total hours worked without overtime payment.

Sixty-hour schedule is reduced to 54 hours in five days; 54-hour schedules to 48.6 hours; 48-hour schedules to 43.2 hours. Minimum daily for 54-hour employes is nine hours; for 48.6-hour employes, eight hours; for 43.2-hour employes, seven hours.

"On call" employes, receiving no overtime payments, receive an additional day off with pay for any Saturday or Sunday work, with the extra time off to be mutually agreed upon or added to vacation time period. This provision applies only to Sunday when the work is on a distant location. For both weekly and daily employes, Saturday is a straight time day on location unless 40 hours have been previously worked. Daily workers on Oct. 27 received a 25-cent hourly increase.

Saturday work in the studio will be paid at time-and-a-half during the period Jan. 30, 1956, through Jan. 29, 1957; for the balance of the contract Saturday time in the studio will be paid at double time.

On Jan. 30, 1958 both daily and weekly scale will be increased two and one-half per cent.

Other important items in the new contract provided for increases in pension plan and health and welfare fund payments. The employer now pays into the pension plan an addition four cents per hour, and the employe an additional two cents. The employer also now pays an additional one-cent an hour into the industry health and welfare fund.

The contract also provides three weeks annual vacation for employes after 12 years with one employer.

● Otherwise, film labor's year was marked by these principal developments:

In early March, the Screen Extras Guild by a 25-to-1 margin voted to expel any member who refuses to testify before a properly constituted Government body concerning membership, or former membership, in Communist or Fascist organizations.

In mid-March, the SAG by a 60-to-1 margin approved a wage agreement for TV film commercials.

The AFL Film Council in Hollywood in early April denounced "runaway" producers overseas as "un-American."

The Writers Guild of America came into being in mid-April and F. Hugh Herbert was elected its first national chairman. On May 18, the Writers Guild, West and the AMPP announced the signing of a new three-year contract, expiring Jan. 6, 1958; agreement on its provisions setting new minimums (up to 40%) followed two years' negotiations. A significant provision: The contract may be cancelled if any theatrical film produced or released since Aug. 1, 1948, are released for free TV.

Also in mid-April, the SAG declared it "conduct unbecoming a member" to appear without compensation in any television film for so-called interviews.

● In early May, the IATSE and Theatre Network Television concluded the first nation-wide agreement covering employes in the closed circuit field. A few days later, the SAG and the DuMont Network signed the first collective bargaining agreement covering actors, singers and announcers in filmed video. Another agreement in the TV field also was signed in May. Its principals were four major studios engaged in TV film production and television writers. The contract covered free-lance TV writers.

In mid-June, the Screen Publicists Guild of Hollywood, previously independent, voted to affiliate with the IATSE as Local 818.

● On June 20, it was announced that the major distributors and the Colosseum of Motion Picture Sales of America had signed a new two-year contract; it provides for a $5.50 weekly wage increase.

The SAG in mid-August after a short strike signed a new agreement, extending to March 31, 1960, with principal television film producing companies. It assured increases in minimum rates, residual payments for second to sixth runs, inclusive.

COLOR PROGRESS

By LOUIS PELEGRINE

Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

THE MORE UNIVERSAL acceptance of the new processes with their dependance on color for attainment of their maximum effectiveness created an unprecedented demand for color prints last year.

Efforts to meet the demand strained to the utmost the facilities of the laboratories, some of which found themselves compelled to make still further additions to their plant equipment that their capacity might be boosted.

PELEGRINE

The studios did not lose time seeing to it that the increased call for color prints was satisfied. M-G-M, 20th Century-Fox and Warner Bros. led the major studios in adopting measures to step up their color processing capacity. The three studios voiced hopes of hiking their joint output by 3,000,000 feet weekly. M-G-M alone was able to increase its overall capacity by 1,500,000 feet for a weekly total of 2,800,000.

Contributing to the increased demand for color prints was the more extensive use of color in the non-theatrical field.

Technicolor made news in 1955 when Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president and general manager, reported the development of an improved new process for making release prints by the imbibition method.

As related by Kalmus, the improvement involved "changes in Technicolor matrices, in Technicolor blank upon which it prints, in the printing procedures and generally throughout the imbibition process." The materials used in the process were said to be "either different or handled differently."

A demonstration of the improved process was hailed by Kalmus as revealing "the most wonderful picture in color made by any process that I have ever seen on the screen from all technical points of view, including sharpness or definition and especially color rendition." The reaction of the industry was termed "most enthusiastic."

Eastman Kodak and DuPont were disclosed to have improved their stock for prints produced via the new Technicolor process.

Stressing that "Technicolor is by no means wedded to any particular kind of negative or any particular kind of printing process," Kalmus let it be known that his company would hew to the policy of providing "the best quality and best service at the lowest price."

It was Kalmus' assertion that "eventually we foresee an all-purpose process stemming from negatives of increased area (compared with the former standard 35 mm. negatives) from which prints may be made in the Technicolor laboratory for all purposes."

Technicolor "materially expanded" its 16 mm. division in response to what was said by Kalmus to be "a steady and increasing demand by the industry, the Armed Forces and the industrial and educational producers for a substantially increased volume of 16 mm. dye transfer (imbibition) prints of high quality picture and sound, made from all types of 35 mm. color and silver negatives."

Negotiations with "important interests" in Italy and India for the construction of Technicolor plants in those countries were reported by Kalmus to have reached "an advanced stage," while talks looking to the establishment of an affiliate in Japan were initiated by the company during the year. A Technicolor plant was in operation in Joinville, France, just outside of Paris, as 1955 ended. It was anticipated that the French plant would have an annual capacity of at least 70,000,000 feet of color positive release prints.

In explanation of his company's interest in setting up plants abroad Kalmus said that "the tremendous value of the foreign market confirms the importance of establishing Technicolor plants in desirable foreign locations."

"With the increasing importance of the foreign situation Technicolor," he asserted, "can be of even greater service to the American motion picture industry through the establishment of release print plants in desirable locations to properly service these markets."

Technicolor started the installation of 65 mm. equipment in response to producer requirements. The new facilities make it possible to produce release prints in virtually any aspect ratio, on 16 mm. to 65 mm. wide film, from large-area 65 mm. negatives.

Last year Eastman Kodak unveiled a new system for speedy kinescope recording of color television programs. The system permits the recording of a color television program on special black-and-white film called lenticular film and its retelecasting in color. The film can be processed in about an hour. It was claimed that this new system gives good quality reproduction at a reasonable cost. Conventional sound-track methods are utilized in recording of sound.

The new Eastman Kodak development was expected to aid TV networks in making quick kinescope recordings of color programs to help overcome problems resulting from time-zone differences between various sections of the country.

In 1955 Ansco introduced a new 35 mm. color negative film having fine grain and higher speed. The film was used for the first time in the production of M-G-M's "Lust for Life," based on Irving Stone's novel about painter Vincent van Gogh.

The new Ansco development was credited with offering "more realistic color of the highest fidelity with far superior color reproduction in release prints than ever obtainable before." Another claim made for the film was that it was "considerably sharper, permitting better screen and picture definition."

Anscochrome was the name of another new high-speed color film, this of the reversal type, brought to light last year by Ansco. Normally rated EI 32, the film is intended for direct projection. It can be processed by the user or in the laboratories of the manufacturer. It was pointed out that "the speed of Anscochrome can be further increased to EI 64 and even to 128 by special processing." Such high speeds, it was noted, "make possible color records or subjects heretofore considered impossible."

Supplied in two types, balanced for daylight and tungsten light exposure, Anscochrome, processed to maximum speed, was reported to be finding "extensive use in the professional field for high-speed photography, missle tracking, TV news coverage and other special applications." NBC became the first to announce plans for the wide use of the new 16 mm. color film for TV coverage of spot news.

It was expected that the advantages claimed for Anscochrome would help to bring full-time color TV "very much closer than had been anticipated."

From DuPont came word that the company's research division was "working very hard" on the development of a negative positive process. Expectations were that the process would be ready for the market late this year. DuPont has been out of the color market since it discontinued its interest in Trucolor in 1953.

News of a "tremendous increase" last year in 35 mm. Eastman color production capacity, as well as in the developing and printing of 16 mm. Eastman color positive negative prints, was forthcoming from Consolidated Film Industries, a division of Republic Pictures Corp. To the Fort Lee, N. J., plant of Consolidated went the distinction of doing all the processing of the first TODD-AO production in 65 mm., "Oklahoma!", and the second to be made in the wide-screen process, "Around the World in 80 Days." Consolidated gained recognition as the only laboratory reputed to be completely equipped to turn out 65 mm. or 70 mm. striped release prints.

Credit went to Consolidated for developing a new intermediate technique for processing large numbers of 16 mm. color release prints on Eastman positive from 16 mm. Kodachrome negative. The new technique provides for the enlargement of a 16 mm. Kodachrome negative to a 35 mm. color negative and reduction of the later to a 16 mm. positive.

Announcement of an expansion program doubling its 35 mm. Eastman color processing facilities and providing additional high-speed equipment for developing and printing of 16 mm. commercial and TV film was made in 1955 by Pathe Laboratories. Included in the installation were color developing machines for both 35 mm. and 16 mm. films, as well as additional printing facilities.

The trend to color was given a big impetus in Mexico when Pathe Laboratories made a color-processing deal with Cimex in Mexico City which was expected to prove beneficial to all Mexican producers.

Twentieth Century-Fox did much to enhance the effectiveness and quality of color in motion pictures by introducing CinemaScope in 55 mm. The company made it possible to present CinemaScope pictures of sharper definition and greater depth by photographing in 55 mm. and then reducing the image to 35 mm. for projection. "Carousel," based on the Rogers and Hammerstein stage hit, was the first film to be made in CinemaScope 55. "The King and I," also founded on a Rogers and Hammerstein stage success, was the second.

FILM FESTIVALS

By JAMES MAUCERI
FILM DAILY Staff Writer

INTERNATIONAL FILM FESTIVALS, bestowing glory, gold and imbroglio upon the motion picture industry in 1955, flared, flickered and fizzled. Universally hailed as showcases of the shadow play, the global festivals did limelight films, albeit some cast footlight shadows.

To proponents, such as the Motion Picture Association of America, these showcases are valuable public-relations tools. For example, the United States Information Agency states that participation helps foreigners to understand America. Conversely, disputants charge they beget more trouble than they are worth.

MAUCERI

Actually, festivals are trade fairs. Statistics — American films occupy 68 per cent of screen time in the world's theaters and reap half their revenues from the foreign market — delineate the industry stake in these world market places. Participation breeds profits.

Consider 1955 participation. Added industry prestige, import permits and remittances—results were that simple. Increased understanding abroad of American ideology, through films and industry personalities—results were that complex.

Exemplary was the VIII International Film Festival, Cannes, France, April 25-May 11. There, for the first time, an American feature film captured the coveted Golden Palm.

Coupling art with commerce, the festival, conducted by the French Government, functioned as a trade fair for entertainment films. Favre Le Bret, general secretary of the Cannes Festival, claims business done there totals billions of francs.

Cannes competition ran high—and stiff. Some 42 nations presented 36 feature films and 46 shorts last year. Almost 2,000 industryites, including more than 150 distributors, attended. Publicity-wise, 459 journalists, 64 still photographers and 30 newsreel cameramen recorded the event.

The United States accepted three awards:

1. Golden Palm—United Artists' "Marty," awarded unanimously.

2. Best Dramatic Film—Warners' "East of Eden."

3. Best Performance—Spencer Tracy, in M-G-M's "Bad Day at Black Rock."

Other Cannes awards were:

Special Prize—"Lost Continent" (Italy), unanimously. Scene Setting—Serge Wassiliev, for "The Heroes of Chipka" (Bulgaria) and Jules Dassin, for "Du Riffi Chez Les Hommes" (France). Performance—Spencer Tracy, aforementioned, and the united performances in "A Large Family" (Russia). Lyric Film—"Romeo and Juliet" (Russia), unanimously. Golden Palm—the short, "Blinkity Blank" (Canada). Documentary — "Isle of Fire" (Italy). News Film — "The Great Sin" (France).

Special mentions went to the animated "L'Antilope D'Or" (Russia) and to the child actors Baby Naaz in "Le Petit Cireur" (India) and Pablito Calvo in "Marcelino, Bread and Wine" (Spain).

Cannes paid off, commercially. America gained five import permits above the normal French quota. Free remittal of earnings at subsequent distribution, up to $250,000 a film, meant a potential increase of $1,250,000 in revenues, exclusive of exchange restrictions. Festival regulations of the International Federation of Film Producers Associations provide for such advantages.

In France, presumably, the American industry did not attach more illusion to festival results than to its product. It was a Frenchman, incidentally, who discovered the illusion, rather optical principle, (persistance of vision), which "moves" movies—Peter Mark Roget, in 1826.

Contention keynoted the Venice, Italy, Festival, Aug. 29-Sept. 13, where 19 nations presented 32 films. What American executives later disparaged as a "carnival" atmosphere prevailed, impinging on festival prestige.

M-G-M immediately lost itself and "The Blackboard Jungle" in a political impasse. U. S. Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce made what was considered tantamount to an official protest to the festival directors by saying she would not attend if the picture was not withdrawn. It went out. Metro demurred. It stayed out. The State Department countered that Mrs. Luce had opined the film would "abet the anti-U. S. propaganda of the communists in Italy."

Nevertheless, Venice awards were:

Golden Lion of St. Mark—"Ordet" (Denmark). Silver Lions of St. Mark—"La Cicala" (U.S.S.R.), "The Big Knife" (U.S.A.), "Le Amiche" (Italy), and "Ciske De Rat" (Holland).

Count Volpe Di Misurata Cup for best male performance—Kenneth More in "The Deep Blue Sea" (England) and Kurt Juergens in "Les Heros Sont Fatigues" (France) and "The Devil's General" (Germany), jointly. The Volpe Cup for best female performance was not awarded.

Medals for the most promising new directors—William Fairchild, for "John and Julie" (England); Vaclav Kraka, for "Smetana—Della Mia Vita" (Czechoslovakia); Alexandre Astruc, for "Les Mauvais Rencontres" (France); Andrei Munk, for "Men of the Blue Cross" (Poland); and Francesco Maselli, for "Gli Sbandati" (Italy).

In October 1955, Italian Under-Secretary Brousasca, in charge of the motion picture industry, censured the mishandling of the Venice Festival. His plaint, posted to the Venice Prefeto, cited a general gross inefficiency.

At the fifth Berlin, West Germany, Festival, June 24-July 5, 31 countries submitted 30 full-length features and documentaries and 60 short subjects. The Berlin Senate awarded winners, chosen by popular vote, Gold and Silver Berlin Bears.

Germany captured top honors for feature film and performances, for the first time, with "Die Rattan." Spain placed second with "Marcelino, Bread and Wine." Twentieth-Fox's "Carmen Jones," in third place, was the only American film to crash the top 10.

First in documentaries was Walt Disney's "The Vanishing Prairie," followed by "Lost Continent" (Italy) and "In the Shadow of Karakorium" (Germany).

Disney's "Siam" seized first place for shorts. The French "Pantomimes" was second and the American "Carpenter of the Woods" third.

Because of the political import of the area, Berlin's festival gets the support of both the U. S. State Department and the British Foreign Office. Object—to pierce the Iron Curtain.

In Scotland, the ninth Edinburgh Film Festival, Aug. 21-Sept. 19, screened more than 200 films entered by 38 nations. There, the sixth annual David O. Selznick Golden Laurel awards were presented, honoring non-American produced films.

Golden Laurel Medals went to the nominees of the Selznick committee: "Mr. Hulot's Holiday" (France), "The Little Kidnappers" (England), "Barefoot Battalion" (Greece), "Gate of Hell" (Japan), and "Ugetsu" (Japan). From these, the American jury culled "Ugetsu" as winner of the Golden Laurel Award. Vittorio De Sica received the Golden Laurel Trophy.

Additionally, a new Edinburgh award, in the name of Richard Winnington, a British critic, went to Russian director Mark Donskoi for his three films called "The Maxim Gorki Trilogy."

Other 1955 festivals approved by the International Federation of Film Producers Associations proved less festive. Punta Del Esta, Uruguay, failed to bestow the grand prize last February. America did not enter the Cortina d'Ampezzio, Italy, Festival that month for sports films. Nor did she participate in the Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia, Festival in September.

The Locarno, Switzerland, Festival of July and the Durban, South Africa, affair of August both stirred up complaints about their management. Argentina's festival, scheduled for November, vanished with Juan Peron's regime. San Sebastian, Spain, ruminated its July results and struck the 1956 festival. Finally, the Karachi, Pakistan, Festival vaporized last December.

For 1956, the I.F.F.P.A. has approved these film festivals:

Cannes, France, April 23-May 10. Cork, Ireland, May 21-27. Berlin, Germany, June 22-July 3. Karlovy Vary, Czechoslovakia, July 11-24. Locarno, Switzerland, July 13-22. Edinburgh, Scotland, Aug. 20-Sept. 9. Venice, Italy, Aug. 27-Sept. 8.

However, Karlovy Vary and Locarno were subject to further assurances of strict compliance with the general regulations of the Federation. Berlin, it should be noted, will present official, jury-based awards in addition to audience awards this year. New Venice rules limit showings to 12 feature films. In addition, films will be chosen by the festival committee from lists submitted by participating countries.

To recapitulate: The motion picture industry gleaned prestige and profit from festivals last year. Certainly, the outlook is auspicious for 1956. Morally, Nathan D. Golden, United States Government Delegate to the 1955 Cannes Festival, justifies participation thus:

"Because of the tremendous influence the motion picture film—entertainment, documentary or educational—exerts upon millions of people the world over, it is imperative that Government and industry continue to open every possible avenue to assure a continuance of participation in officially recognized film festivals."

An American International Film Festival might pave one of those avenues. In September 1955, Mayor Robert F. Wagner disclosed plans to hold such an event in New York City this year. His honor claimed it would be "bigger and more impressive than any now held anywhere in the world." Held or not, the mayor surely knows his movie adjectives.

HERE IS A TRUE

Christmas Story

(Reprinted from The Hollywood Reporter, May 5, 1953 and many other magazines and newspapers since.)

ON LAST Christmas Eve afternoon a black haired gal with a lot on the ball and more faith than Hollywood ever dreamed of walked into the Screen Directors Guild office. Their annual Christmas party was in progress. She had phoned this office a few minutes before and a man's voice had answered. When she asked for an immediate appointment with Mr. Morry Abrahms, the man's voice in turn asked her, "Are you Santa Claus?" She had laughingly replied, "Yes, I am Santa Claus!" She could hear the laughter of many voices in the background as the man's voice said, "Well come on over Santa Claus! The front door is locked but the back door is open."

So she entered through the back door and found a large group of people celebrating there. At the sight of the young woman everyone laughed hilariously, for after her call a game had been invented which consisted of the merry-makers describing what Santa Claus would look like, and if she would be known or unknown. She turned out to be a complete stranger to all of them and was armed with a thick folder of papers and a corporation seal. At the sight of the corporation seal. Mr. Joseph Youngerman and Mr. Morry Abrahms of the Screen Directors Guild laughed with amazement. It was the first time anyone had ever walked into their office to sign a basic agreement with them, and insisted on making the contract legal by sealing it with a corporation seal. Her fresh, energetic and amazing force hit the room like a bomb shell. She told them why she was there and as she spoke, somehow her story seemed to especially fit the Christmas spirit which filled the room.

When Mr. Youngerman and Mr. Abrahms heard her story they were so impressed with her faith in the ~~impossible~~ thing she was attempting to do, that before she left, they signed a basic agreement with her for making one of the most fantastic movies ever dreamed up. The story about the fantastic movie is this: On Thanksgiving morning, four short weeks before she walked into the Screen Directors Guild office, her father, Mr. M. K. Marlow, had given her an impossible challenge.

> "If you show me how much you know about the motion picture business by making a feature length picture under fifty thousand dollars, and use only union men while doing it, I will turn our ranch at Laveen, Arizona, into an outdoor studio and we will go permanently into the motion picture industry."

Lea Knox Marlow took her father up on his seemingly impossible challenge, and moved into Hollywood like a whirlwind. First she created a story which she felt had a chance to get finished under fifty thousand dollars. She made two neighboring ranch children, Jody Johnson and Jules Serio, into deaf and dumb characters because she could not afford to have them talking. She titled the story "The Phoenix Bird." Next she signed a basic agreement with every union in Hollywood. At the end of four weeks from the time she had made the deal with her father, she had written the story, set up all the mechanical production, recorded her background music with only two musicians in a three-hour minimum ad lib session. The resulting music was so powerful and strangely beautiful, that those who have heard it say it sounds like it came from another world; she hired a top flight I.A.T.S.E. crew, and started shooting at her ranch in Arizona January fifth, on a six-day shooting schedule.

By the end of six weeks from the day on which her father issued his challenge to her, Lea Knox Marlow had completed shooting "The Phoenix Bird." When it was all over she discovered they had shot enough good film for two movies—all in the new Eastman color. So, with her dramatic writing sense she created another story from the additional film and entitled it "A Salesman of God." With her faith, lots of hard work, and even editing the rough cuts herself, she miraculously managed to stay under her fifty thousand dollar budget, and had gotten two films from the making of one, to boot.

After she had won the challenge, Lea Knox Marlow told her father that if it had not been for the help of the wonderful union people, she could not have accomplished her mission. She was especially grateful to Mr. Youngerman and Mr. Abrahms of the Screen Directors Guild, Mr. Zeal Fairbanks of I.A.T.S.E., Mr. Herb Aller of Photographers Union, Mr. Ollie Alberti, and Mr. Ward Archer of American Federation of Musicians, Mr. Lloyd Richards, Mr. Grayson Roger, Mr. Elmo Williams, Mr. John Livesley, Mr. Joseph Biroc, Mr. Edward Fitzgerald, Mr. Gene Farrel, Mr. David Kline, Harpist Kathryn Thompson, Flutist Sylvia Rudiman, and Mr. Charles Leeds of Filmeffects for their good hearts and invaluable asistance.

This is the story of the beginning of a ten million dollar corporation, M.K.M. Motion Pictures, Incorporated. Mr. M. K. Marlow, Kentucky Banker and owner of a great coal corporation with a number of coal mines as well as the owner of many other varied enterprises, is Chairman of the Board. His daughter, Lea Knox Marlow, is President-Treasurer, Mr. C. S. Leeds is Executive Vice-President and Mr. Thomas Loyd Corbin is secretary.

Permanent headquarters for M. K. M. MOTION PICTURES, INC., is at their Ranch Studio at LAVEEN, ARIZONA

AND HERE IS THE WOMAN

it happened to LEA KNOX MARLOW

TO QUOTE A RADIO NEWSPAPERMAN:

"A new star is rising on the motion picture horizon. The George Bernard Shaw producer, Gabriel Pascal, claimed he discovered her. Her name is Lea Knox Marlow, but she should be called 'The Female Orson Welles.' She is like DUZ. She just does everything there is to be done in making a motion picture. She has just finished two remarkable movies called 'The Phoenix Bird' and 'A Salesman of God,' for M.K.M. Motion Pictures, Inc.

"Keep your eye on this fantastic woman. She performs sheer magic."

From UA in 1956 . . .

THE GREATEST STAR POWER

To Our Exhibitor Friends Throughout the World:

You have noted our various announcements of picture projects during this past year. Naturally, we have been proud of the producer, director and writer talents who have taken advantage of the opportunity afforded them through U.A. to enter into independent production.

Recently, in a trade advertisement, we listed the names of this imposing array of creative talents from whose efforts we have promised you a minimum of 90 pictures over the next three years—30 a year. This minimum is actually committed as of now and the 90 or more pictures are either already produced, or in production, or in various phases of script development. As part of this program, we have continuously stressed the importance of star power — of proven box-office values —and to that end, we have in many ways attempted to create inducements to stimulate additional production activity on the part of our stars, so that the good health of our great industry, which is measured at your box-office, could thrive.

Now, as we look forward to the year 1956, we are thrilled, as you will be, by the results of this encouragement. We are listing here without frills and simply in alphabetical order, some of the stars who will appear in some of our releases for 1956. There are listed here 35 stars and 29 pictures, which is only a part of our program for 1956. All but a handful of these listed pictures are now in production and principal photography has been completed on most of them; not a single one is scheduled to start later than April 1st or to be released later than Christmas of next year. We believe this is the greatest star power ever included in a single year's program of any one company in the history of motion pictures. Many of these same stars have numerous other projects not here listed in pre-production preparation for 1957 and 1958. Other stars, such as Joan Crawford, Rita Hayworth, Betty Grable and others, are now in the process of activating their programs.

Other important announcements, adding to the U.A. family of producers, directors, writers and stars will soon supplement this imposing array. We hope that with this exciting line-up, you will feel amply rewarded for your past support of U.A. and that we may merit your ever increasing support, so that we, in turn, can make our contribution to the industry ever bigger and better.
